

SAMPLE

Phishing: Don't Take the Bait

Phishing victims receive fraudulent e-mails containing authentic-looking logos and familiar graphics. You're asked to reveal account information or other personal data such as usernames, passwords, and Social Security numbers.

Your credit union never will send you an e-mail—or call you by phone—asking for this data. We already have this information.

