CCUV...the credentials behind every good credit union volunteer.

Earn your designation as a Certified Credit Union Volunteer with the CUNA Volunteer Certification Program.

You deserve all the recognition in the world for volunteering to direct a credit union. Members rely heavily on credit unions for their financial security, and your decision to volunteer for such an important organization is to be applauded.

It's also a responsibility you can't take lightly.

In a financial world that grows in complexity with each passing day, you need an advanced understanding of the issues affecting your credit union. From daily operations to board governance, your ability to understand and analyze issues is critical.

That's a big responsibility for a volunteer, which is why CUNA created the CUNA Volunteer Certification Program. The program is designed to create a simplified approach to some rather complex subjects. It will provide you with a convenient, practical way to become certified in the areas of credit union operations, governance, compliance, and more. Plus, through your studies and taking the online exams, you'll earn your credentials as a Certified Credit Union Volunteer (CCUV) to prove you're an accountable credit union volunteer.

Volunteers can choose from two training tracks. If you're uncertain which area is ideally suited for your volunteer efforts, we'll help you select the right track and courses.
