

SETTING THE RECORD STRAIGHT: BANK MYTHS ABOUT CREDIT UNIONS

BANK CLAIM:

The credit union industry as a whole, and large credit unions in particular, have simply gotten too large.

THE FACTS ARE:

// U.S. banks are a $17.5 trillion industry, and the typical U.S. bank is nearly seven times larger than the typical credit union.

// And big banks are growing far faster than credit unions - increasingly dominating the financial services marketplace as a share of total assets. Credit union market share is virtually unchanged over the past quarter century.

Market Share of Assets

// Big banks are also very healthy, with many enjoying record profits in Q1 2018 according to numerous outlets, including Fox Business, Bloomberg, Fortune, CNBC, and The Wall Street Journal. Click here for story
